RETAIL SALES POLICY

Märklin, Inc. sells only through authorized Märklin dealers. Märklin, Inc. does not sell directly to individuals.

RETAIL PRICE LIST

Märklin's Retail Price List is divided into two categories. First, a complete numeric listing of both Cataloged Items-items which appear in the standard Märklin Catalog, and Non-Cataloged Items-items which do not appear in the standard Märklin Catalog. Secondly, the Non-Cataloged Items have been separated and further defined by special product lines, programs and discontinued items.

For complete descriptions of standard items, refer to the Märklin full-line product catalog. A handy numeric index of all the items is located at the front of the catalog. Descriptions of non-cataloged items are included in the non-cataloged section of the price list.

Due to Märklin's extensive product line of cataloged and non-cataloged items, not all authorized dealers will have a complete inventory of all of these items. However, dealers can special order any items you may wish to purchase. To locate the Authorized Märklin Dealer nearest you, please write to: Märklin, Inc., PO Box 510559, New Berlin, WI 53151 or call 1-800-825-0888.

WARRANTY

Märklin, Inc. warrants that its products are free from defects in materials and workmanship for a period of one year from the date of purchase. If there is any defect, return that item with proof of purchase to your authorized Märklin Dealer. Defects arising from abuse, improper maintenance or misuse are not covered in this warranty. This warranty applies ONLY to purchases made through Authorized Dealers in North America.

Adler Train Set

Märklin, Inc., in cooperation with the Railex company of Stuttgart, Germany, is offering a special edition Z gauge, six unit train set of the Adler - the first train in Germany.

The history of the railroad in Germany began on December 7, 1835. This was the date of the initial run between the towns of Nürnberg and Fürth by the Bavarian King's sponsored Railroad Company. The locomotive ADLER was built in the R. Stephenson factory in England. At the time, Stephenson was the most successful locomotive builder in the world. The cars were made in Germany. King Ludwig's railroad was only 16 kilometers (3.6 miles) long and some of the trains were still pulled by horses as late as 1863.

This model is painstakingly constructed by hand from brass with spoke wheels and is an identical replica of the original in every detail down to and including the paint pattern.

The train has a sound simulation module and Faulhaber motor.

Märklin was the first major model train manufacturer to recognize the interest in prototypical multi-train operation. This led to the development of Märklin's multi-train control systems - Digital and DELTA.

Since the introduction in 1986 of the Digital system in the U.S., sales of multi-train control products has risen dramatically. Märklin's state-of-the-art system allows simultaneous operation of up to 80 locomotives and 256 solenoid accessories all on the same layout. This makes operating model trains more fun and realistic!

In 1992, Märklin added a new dimension to HO starter sets and entry level operation with the introduction of the DELTA multi-train control system. With DELTA you can operate four or five trains simultaneously and independently on a layout. And when you are ready to expand your operating capabilities it's easy to move from DELTA to Digital.

Although the DELTA and Digital systems can be used to operate trains produced by other manufacturers, the system is designed to easily combine with Märklin's HO, MAXI and 1 Gauge trains for prototypical multi-train operation on a layout.

Our comprehensive, multi-train control system allows easy entry for the beginner or total command control for the advanced operator. Let DELTA and Digital bring realism to your model railroad.

DELTA and Digital operation for all systems

What is multi-train control?

With multi-train control you have the possibility of giving operating commands to the different locomotives on a model railroad layout. For this purpose each locomotive has a receiver (Digital or DELTA decoder) on which an individual address is set. The receiver continuously compares the commands entering from the sender (Control Unit or DELTA Station) with its own address, then it carries out this command.

This enables you to operate several locomotives on a layout and to set the operating status for each locomotive without additional wiring. The following situation can be mastered easily without different track circuits: a train comes into a station and stops there while a switch engine brings two additional cars which are to be coupled to this train. A train passes by this busy activity at high speed. While the switch engine returns to the switching area, the completed train simultaneously moves off in the opposite direction. All of this happens on a layout which receives its power through a single set of feeder connections!

What is the difference between the DELTA and the Digital system?

The DELTA system is, practically speaking, the little brother of the Märklin Digital system. The DELTA system focuses on the necessary functions in the starter sets and in simple operation of electric trains. Thus, the number of addresses that can be selected is limited to four instead of the 80 addresses possible with Digital. Solenoid-activated accessories such as turnouts or signals cannot be addressed in the DELTA system as they are in Digital system with the appropriate receiver, and the auxiliary functions found in the locomotive can likewise be used only in the Digital system. The control unit for the DELTA system is a hand controller or the train control transformer, while in the Digital system there is a complete series of different control components available for different purposes.

The DELTA system is therefore the more appropriate entry into multi-train control for small to medium size layouts. Four locomotive addresses are usually sufficient for getting started, and the number of solenoid accessories in use on such layouts does not really require Digital control with route selection and block operation. You can easily move over to the Digital system later since DELTA decoders can be used with Digital with no alterations, and the DELTA control can be used as a booster unit in the Digital system.

TRACK PLANNING

A track planning layout service is available through Dr. Tom Catherall, Märklin Digital Consultant. Using a CAD (computer assisted design) program, Dr. Catherall has developed libraries for track in K, M, 1 and Z gauges and can provide layout designs printed in colors for correct wiring connections. Prices vary with the complexity of the layout. For complete costs and details write:

NON-CATALOGED ITEMS

FEBRUARY 1996

The items featured in this portion of the price list are non-cataloged items. These items do not appear in the standard Märklin catalog and some are produced exclusively for the North American market. Many of these items are produced on a very limited basis and, in some cases, must be sold by allocation to dealers. This situation is not limited to the North American market and at times occurs on a worldwide basis.

Märklin GmbH recognizes that a shortage of product can create frustration among collectors. Unfortunately at times it is very difficult to forecast with any degree of accuracy the market demand for special products which will be produced as a one-time production run. In order to stay up to date on the availability of non-cataloged items, we recommend that you contact your local Märklin dealer.

EXPORT PROGRAM

Märklin's Special Export Models program consists of non-cataloged special models manufactured for certain countries outside of Germany. There is usually only one production run made and, based on demand, they can become limited in quantity. In some cases the items may be completely sold out at the factory and can no longer be ordered.

"MHI" ITEMS

The program is termed the Märklin-Händler-Initiative program. Participating dealers in Germany pay annual dues to belong to the association. The main feature of the "MHI" program is a cooperation with Märklin to manufacture special "one-time" product runs, which are available only to their member dealers and to Märklin subsidiary companies, including Märklin of North America. These items are packaged with a special logo titled "Exclusiv" and are not cataloged.
